KEVIN MCCARRON

In his laugh-a-minute post-apocalyptic comedy show

NUCLEAR WAR! FOLLOWED BY THE COMPLETE EXTERMINATION OF EVERY LIVING ORGANISM ON THE PLANET

“Top London Comic” – Liberty Radio
“Brilliantly Quick Witted” – Time Out, Comics Choice
“Good Timing” – Arnold Brown

Kevin McCarron presents a completely improvised hour of stand-up comedy, with the subject matter made up entirely of audience suggestions, including the title - which was a heckle at the first show. (“I’ll never take my wife to see me do comedy again” – Kevin McCarron).

McCarron uses this heckle and others as a launch pad, taking audience suggestions on any topic at all to construct a lively, surprising and always hilarious one hour show.

Kevin McCarron is a highly experienced comedian and compere, performing throughout the year at the national Laughing Horse chain of comedy clubs, as well as making appearances at stand-up venues up and down the country, in France and in Spain.

Originating from New Zealand, and having lived in the UK for 22 years, McCarron is used to the frustrations of the British way-of-life, as seen through the eyes of a colonial refusing to enter his fifth decade of life gracefully.

Having led a life that has seen him travel the world, marry an Australian, have two children, and work through numerous jobs that have included working for rock bands and becoming the UK’s leading expert on William Golding, any performance from McCarron always covers a wide a range of subjects: from rugby to Justin Timberlake, drug consumption to Pingu, Shakespearean literature to Blocked toilets and, of course, dead cats.
